ABOUT THE COMPANY

eSalesData is one of the leading data-driven marketing solution provider. The optimized services match the market standards and have successfully served customers across the globe.

The data experts and other professionals take utmost care in developing the business data that guides the campaign on the right track with the solution facilitating multi-channel marketing campaigns such as direct mail, email and telemarketing. It encompasses data from various industries, including healthcare, retail, finance, IT, real estate, oil and gas and many more. Thus, it helps broaden the horizon and capture opportunities in different sectors. The other offered services are data cleansing, data appending, data profiling, data licensing, data reselling, etc.

The prospect data includes healthcare email list, technology users list, C-level executives list, B2B mailing list, technology users list, among others. The information is collected from best sources such as conferences, trade shows, business events and other high-profile events.

We ensure the data complies with global and local data privacy laws and upload only permission-based opt-in contact lists to the master directory. Therefore, users are guaranteed to get the most authenticated data that power your marketing campaign.

Our Mission

Expansion is the ultimate mission for any business, and we are no different. However, it is not just about our growth. We strive to develop solutions and services that will help us grow together. Customers are at the center of our business model. With increasing data networks across the globe, we plan to keep adding data to our database so that you can keep multiplying your customer base.

Our Vision

We aim to offer businesses the right resources and guidance to explore every marketing opportunity with our specialized and effective data solutions. Our goal is to lead marketers to a path of success where data will act as their driving force. All our focus lies in introducing innovation and expertise that can help us build effective databases to support direct marketing campaigns.

Our Goal

Building a brand isn't easy; we understand that it takes more than one person to manage your brand and be a leader in your industry. Data quality and data accuracy are the two pillars of our company. As a B2B marketing database provider, our goal is to offer high quality and substantiated data that can make data-driven campaigns efficient and result-oriented.
